A Bit About You

- Your name
- Your role
- Your connection to public libraries, if any
- Your one wish

Session Description

The public library is one of the most trusted community institutions—second only to the fire department. Find out how to create connections with the 380+ public libraries in Wisconsin from Tessa Michaelson Schmidt, a public library consultant from the Department of Public Instruction. Whether working with educators, students, families—especially those in challenging situations--public libraries want to build lasting relationships with learning and access through library materials and services. This session will explore the basic structure of public libraries, regional library systems, and the state library and how resources are accessible to the students you serve. Come with your questions and ideas for collaboration!

Selected K-5 Books for Reflecting on One's Place in the World

Compiled by Megan Schliesman and Merri V. Lindgren
© 2012 Cooperative Children's Book Center; updated annually

This bibliography suggests titles that connect to common themes and subject areas (with the exception of history) in the K-5 social studies curriculum, from how young children understand themselves to how they begin to understand their role and place in family, community, and the wider world.

Books have been broadly organized into three sections:

- Me, My Family, My Community (K-3 emphasis)
- Have and Have Not: Economics and Personal Finance (K-5 emphasis)
- From Here to There: Geography (K-5 emphasis)

A number of other CCBC bibliographies offer additional suggestions for K-5 students and beyond. Those connecting most closely to the themes above are Images of Community and Global Reading.

Click on the complete list of CCBC bibliographies below to see all of our offerings.

Finally, no single bibliography can meet the needs of all teachers, schools and districts as they implement their specific curriculum and approaches to the Common Core Standards. The CCBC welcomes questions from Wisconsin teachers and librarians in need of book suggestions for specific subjects or topics. Email us with your questions.

Click on underlined book titles to see the CCBC review of the book, and/or the cover image.
